Who We Serve
We serve the Fifth Federal Reserve District, including the District of Columbia, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and most of West Virginia. Our headquarters is in Richmond, Va., and we have branch offices in Charlotte, N.C., and Baltimore, Md.

What We Do
In our work to ensure a stable and sound economy, we manage the nation’s money supply to keep inflation low and help the economy grow. We also supervise financial institutions to safeguard our nation’s financial system, and we protect the integrity and efficiency of our payments systems.

• With more than 20 leading economists, we work at the frontiers of economic research and produce, gather and analyze economic data to inform Federal Reserve policymakers.

• Our Supervision, Regulation and Credit staff work with nearly 400 financial institutions across our District to ensure they follow safe and sound practices.

• We provide payments services to financial institutions and the U.S. government, and we distribute U.S. currency and coins to banks.

As part of the nation’s 100-year-old central bank, the Richmond Fed is one of 12 regional Reserve Banks that work together with the Federal Reserve’s Board of Governors to strengthen the economy and our communities.

With more than 2,200 employees, the Richmond Fed is dedicated to serving the American public and the Fifth District. We foster a diverse and inclusive workplace that offers our employees opportunities to learn and develop—both personally and professionally. Learn more about a career with the Richmond Fed.

We partner with local organizations across our District to provide resources and data and help promote local economic growth. Through interactive exhibits such as The Fed Experience, financial literacy programs and training for teachers, we’re also educating people about how the economy works.

Our Leadership
Our Bank’s leadership team includes President Jeffrey Lacker and First Vice President Mark Mullinix. We’re overseen by a nine-member Board of Directors, and our Charlotte and Baltimore branch offices also have Boards.

Learn more about us at richmondfed.org, or follow the Richmond Fed on Twitter, Facebook, YouTube and Storify.
The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond is headquartered in Richmond, Va., with offices in Charlotte, N.C., and Baltimore, Md.

The Fifth Federal Reserve District consists of the District of Columbia, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and most of West Virginia, and we supervise nearly 400 financial institutions across our District.

- We employ more than 2,200 people.

- Our president is Jeffrey Lacker. Our first vice president and chief operating officer is Mark Mullinix.

- Our Bank is led by an 11-member Management Committee and overseen by a nine-member Board of Directors.

- In 2013, our Reserve Bank paid the U.S. Treasury $4.5 billion—approximately $79.6 billion for the System. We’re financed mainly by interest earned on the Fed’s portfolio of income-producing government securities.

- The Fifth District Cash offices process about 3 billion pieces of currency a year.

- In 2013, we were recognized at the Sterling Workplace Awards by the Greater Richmond Society for Human Resource Management. Our president, Jeffrey Lacker, received a Sterling Executive Partnership Award, which recognizes leaders who effectively motivate, develop and interact with employees.

- Our Research department produces six publications, two podcast series and regional surveys of business activity, plus maintains a Twitter feed. We use this work, as well as research published in external journals, to share our views with policymakers, other economists and the general public.

- The Fed Experience, our Richmond-based interactive exhibit about the economy, has welcomed more than 30,000 visitors since it opened to the public in July 2010.

- In 2013, we held 53 regional forums, roundtables and community development events across our District to learn more about emerging issues and trends in our communities.

Learn more about the Fed’s history at www.federalreservehistory.org

Follow the Richmond Fed on Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn and YouTube

November 2014