Purpose of FR 2910a Report

The FR 2910a (Annual Report of Deposits & Reservable Liabilities) is an annual report generally filed by depository institutions that are exempt from reserve requirements under the Garn-St Germain Depository Institutions Act of 1982 and whose total deposits, measured from depository institutions' December Quarterly Report of Condition (Call Report), are greater than the annual exemption amount ($10.7M) but less than the reduced reporting limit ($1.415B). The report contains three data items that are to be submitted for a single day, June 30: (1) total transaction accounts, savings deposits, and small time deposits; (2) reservable liabilities; and (3) net transaction accounts.

The data collected on this report serve two purposes. First, the data are used to determine which depository institutions will remain exempt from reserve requirements and consequently eligible for reduced reporting for another year. Second, the data are used in the annual indexation of the low reserve tranche, the exemption amount, the nonexempt deposit cutoff, and the reduced reporting limit.

FR 2910a Frequently Asked Questions

What types of institutions are required to submit the FR 2910a report?

FR 2910a reporters consist of all depository institutions with net transaction accounts less than or equal to the annual exemption amount and the reduced reporting limit determined by the Federal Reserve Board of Governors. The current annual exemption amount is $10.7 million and the reduced reporting limit is $1.415 billion.

How does the Federal Reserve determine which depository institutions are eligible to report the FR 2910a?

The Federal Reserve uses the December Call Report from the prior year to determine if the deposits and reservable liabilities are within the appropriate threshold. In addition, institutions for which Call Report data are not available, and therefore whose deposit size is unknown, will be required to file the FR 2910a as of June 30, 2010.

What is the frequency of the FR 2910a report?

The FR 2910a report is filed annually with the Federal Reserve with an as-of date of June 30.

What are deposits?

For purposes of this report, deposits include the sum of total transaction accounts, total savings deposits, small time deposits, and ineligible acceptances and obligations issued by the affiliates maturing in less than seven days.

What are primary obligations?

Generally, a primary obligation is a liability that is issued or undertaken by a depository institution as a means of obtaining funds. For purposes of this report, primary obligations are considered deposits when they are entered into with non-exempt entities. Please refer to pages 2 and 3 of the FR 2910a instructions for complete discussions of primary obligations.

What are net transactions accounts?

Net transaction accounts are the sum of transaction accounts less demand balances due from other U.S. depository institutions and cash items in the process of collection.
