The Maryland Financial Education Summit

Friday, April 24, 2015

9:30 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Baltimore Branch, 502 S. Sharp Street, Baltimore

Please join financial education practitioners, researchers and stakeholders to consider how we can help Maryland adults gain the skills and confidence to meet their financial goals. Attorney General Brian Frosh and the co-chairs of the Maryland Financial Education and Capability Commission, Senator Kathy Klausmeier and Delegate Dana Stein, will participate. Also speaking will be Urvi Neelakantan, a research economist at the Richmond Fed, and Robin McKinney and Sue Rogan of the Maryland CASH Campaign.

This summit is designed to allow educators to share their best teaching tools, methods and curriculum with the group. We will bring together up-to-date research, best practices and the insights and expertise of our state's financial education leaders. Via interactive presentations, plenary sessions and small workshops, we will consider these key questions:

- What would it take to provide high quality, engaging financial education for adults in Maryland?
- What would it take for the education to lead to better outcomes for participants?

Who should attend this interactive summit?

Financial educators, members of organizations who provide financial education, and stakeholders who promote or provide high-quality financial education programs in Maryland.
